

Short CV
of
Dr. Farhana Parveen

Dr. Farhana Parveen is an assistant Professor in the department of EEE of East West University. She graduated from BUET and obtained PhD from University of Central Florida, USA. Prior to joining EWU, she served as a lecturer in Stamford University Bangladesh, and graduate teaching assistant in UCF. She has been serving as executive committee members in several chapter and affinity groups under IEEE Bangladesh section since 2015. Her research area is in the field of RF, microwave and bio-electromagnetics. She has publications in several flagship conferences, and she has served in the technical program committee and reviewer panel in different renowned journal and conferences. She has also received various national and international awards and fellowships for her research and academic excellence.